Beginning To-Morrow Morning and lasting until the Evening of May 30. We will make this sale the talk of the State. The values we give are so grand, the prices we name so phenomenally low, that it will pay you to come to Indianapolis from the most distant parts of the State and lay in your supplies for the summer. We have lately made some stupendous purchases of Men's and Boys' Clothing, Furnishings, Hats and Shoes. We found manufacturers overloaded with stocks and hard pressed for cash. Our ability to pay spot cash and to use enormous quantities enabled us to buy these goods at our own prices. We bought them cheap—we sell them cheap. The Model's "KORKER" SALE will soon be widely known throughout the State.

BUILDING ASSOCIATIONS.

Resources Upon Which the Thrifty Can Draw to Secure Homes and Avoid Paying Rent.

"More additions have been laid out this spring than ever before, especially in the northern and eastern sections of the city." said a real-estate man yesterday. "The effect can only be beneficial to the building associations for the reason that hundreds of men are enabled to live in the suburbs upon lots easily reached by electric lines who could never afford to buy a correspondingly well situated lot down in the city. The only thing to be feared in all this building upon suburban lots is the possibility of a future depression and the consequent inability of building association members to pay for their homes. The only way to avert such a possibility is extreme care upon the part of the building societies to loan money only upon the best situated lots. Matters have come to such a pass now that the average-salaried man can afford, as well as his wealthier employer, to own his own home. It is safe to say that a man with $50 in cash and $15 a month to put into a home can be his own landlord if he wishes. It takes time to accomplish this, but the buyer wisely reasons that it is better to pay rent to himself for eight or ten years and then hold a warranty deed to the home in which he lives than to pay the same amount in the same time to a rental agent and at the end of ten years have nothing but a stack of rent rece pts to show for his invested money. Nothing proves the rapid and healthy growth of Indianap-olis more than the few houses that there are for rent. In spite of the fact that one hundred and thirty local associations are building over one thousand homes a year, into every one of which a former tenant of rented property moves, the rented property is all filled. One can walk for blocks through any part of the city without finding a single vacant home, that is reasona-bly habitable, and every day I have persons in my office scanning my rental list and complaining because there are so few houses for rent. I have been in the real-

The Indiana Savings and Investment Association is prospering greatly under the efficient work of Charles E. Holloway, the secretary. This company is one of the few making a specialty of paying withdrawing members upon demand without waiting the customary ninety days as most associations do. This association was started some do. This association was started some three years ago upon a somewhat original plan, combining the best points of a savings bank with the safety and larger profits of a building association. The plan proved popular at the outset and the membership has been a large one from the start. The ease with which a person may join and withdraw especially commends it to a class of people who do not care to affiliate with a society which demands long-continued membership in order to enlong-continued membership in order to en-joy profits. The society makes a practice of purchasing homes for its members outright whenever an amount sufficient to guarantee perfect safety has been paid in. Such purchases are made only upon proper-ties that are well situated and apt to in-crease in value. The plan has proved pop-ular and successful, and no forectosures have ever been found necessary. In addi-tion to buying houses already built the so-ciety has erected many dwellings upon lots owned by the members.

"The Charity conference ought to take official cognizance of the good work being accomplished in this city by the Dime Saving and Loan Association," said a gentleman, recently, who is acquainted with the plan and practical results of this society.

now are enabled to pay their own way, simply because they lay by enough in summer to tide them over. People will always save money after the habit of thrift is instilled, provided they find a means for laying it up. The association receives the smallest deposits, allows interest and withdrawal at any time. Leans are made on stock when desired. The money is collected weekly by the Charity Organization visitors, and the cost of running the institution is reduced to a minimum. The building is reduced to a minimum. The building and saving societies of this city are doing a great work, but none of them are accomplishing nobler results than the Dime association."

The Provident Association, at No. 89 East Market street, has ready money to loan. Shares may be taken at any time without The Socialistic Building and Saving Association, of which Max Schwarzer is secretary, is prespering and erecting many homes this season for its members. The society is now four years old and has had uninterrupted prosperity from the first. The South-side Saving and Loan Associabusiness has increased to such an extent that it now has two evenings and one afternoon each week for receiving payments. Over fifty loans are in force, the majority of them on new properties.

The Turners' Saving and Loan Association is one that is rapidly increasing its list of stockhoiders. Organized a year and a half ago, it has met with success from the start, and at present has 650 shares in force, with a record of a loan made almost every month since starting. The Madison-avenue Savings and Loan Association, of which C. Mueller is the secretary, is one that has a large membership of German-American citizens. It has issued to date some five hundred shares and made twenty loans to its members, the most of which loans have been on new homes. The Economy Savings and Loan Associatian, as its name implies is one that inculcates prudence on the part of its members. It has thirty-five excellent loans in force, largely upon new homes erected by mem-bers. It has had the further good fortune of never finding it necessary to foreclose a The Union Depot association, William Kaiser secretary, is almost to the end of its fourth year of successful existence. estate business here for fifteen years, and believe that if the signs of the times are

ELECTRIC LIGHT CONTRACT.

The Brush Company Service Since the First of January Not an Easy Thing to Settle,

Either to-morrow night or at its next meeting the Council will take up the electric-light question as unfinished business and try to settle upon the price to be paid for the 119 street lamps the Brush company has been furnishing ever since its contract expired last January, By the terms of President Caven's letter the price for these lights was left in the hands of the old light committee of the Council. The Board of Public Works was going to settle this matter at once after coming into office, but when it asked the Brush company to submit what it considered a fair price, Theodore J. Bailey, of the Thompson-Houston company, which now controls the Brush, appeared upon the scene and submitted a price at the rate of $105 per year, a jump from $60, the old contract price. The board thereupon paused to take breath. After holding various secret conferences and gathering a "It has done more for the actual welfare of the very poor than one would imagine," he continued. "Scores of people who formerly were assisted through the winter months and ought to get it out. Therefore it requested Chairman Gauss, of the old light committee to take the matter up and dispose of it.

It was the intention to hold a meeting of this committee during the past week, but the members, Mesers. Gauss, Hicklin and Stechhan did not get around to it. If they can get together to-morrow they will present a resolution to-morrow night, fixing the price. Whether this will hold good, should the company contest it, is a legal question. "Mr. Caven left the matter practically in my hands," said Mr. Gauss yesterday. "He said he knew I'd do the fair thing in the matter and he'd guarantee that the company would be satisfied. I think myself that $80 would be a fair price. That was their first bid, you know, and then it was cut down to $60. I've talked with Mr. Caven, and I know that will be satisfactory to him." Mr. Hicklin favors a higher price, and Mr. Stechhan is non-committal on the subject.

As soon as this question is disposed of the Board of Public Works says it will be ready to advertise for bids for a lighting contract, or for the erection of a plant. If the bids show that the latter idea is worth figuring on, it may ask the Council to repeal the ordinance requiring all electric-light wires to go under ground within the
